College Social Media Policy

Learners must at all times use social media sites in a responsible manner, having due regard to the rights and reputation of the College and of others. In particular, Learners are required to comply with the following rules:

1. Do not use social media sites for any purpose which is prohibited under the terms of the College ICT Policy.

4. Do not excessively duplicate previously posted communications (other Users may consider this as spam).
5. Do not impersonate any other person nor engage in trolling (i.e. intentionally insulting and harassing people via the Internet).

9. When posting as individuals, Learners are asked to consider that it may be appropriate for them to identify any personal views expressed by them, on third party websites, as their own and not representing the College .
10. While recognising the importance of academic freedom, Learners must ensure that they adhere to this Policy for any official College accounts.
11. Do not post material which is confidential and proprietary to the College or which could have the effect of damaging the reputation of the College or the privacy or reputation of any third party.

17. Do not invite staff members of Cork ETB to participate in social media sites which are set up in a private capacity or as a group of learners.

Third Party Social Media Sites

Third party social media sites, such as Facebook, twitter, YouTube and LinkedIn are used at the Learner's own risk and since the College has no control over these sites, the College cannot take any responsibility for data stored on these sites. Learners should familiarise themselves with the terms and conditions governing all social media sites and adhere to these conditions, in addition to the regulations set out in this Policy. Learners should ensure that they protect themselves, read and familiarise themselves with any privacy policy governing the site to ensure that they are happy with the uses and disclosures that may be made of their data. It is recommended that Learners maintain the highest possible privacy settings (i.e. "private" profile on Facebook). Learners should be aware that this security may not be possible on some services (such as Twitter or LinkedIn).

Think Before You Post

Even where social media accounts have been deactivated, copies of user information may still remain online. Before posting content on a social media site, Learners should consider the permanent online footprint they are creating in doing so. The nature of the Internet provides unique opportunities for copying and dissemination of information, regardless of the originator's intentions. Learners should think carefully about whether they are happy for their information to be made available in this manner, not just now, but into the future (such as in the context of exams, future job applications, etc.). The potential for copying information on the Internet makes it difficult to permanently delete user information.

Compliance with Policy

The College reserves the right to monitor, intercept and review, without notice, the postings and activities of Learners where there is reason to suspect that this Policy is being breached, or where deemed necessary by the College for other legitimate reasons.

The College reserves the right to disable access to social networking if there is ANY evidence that their continued use is likely to cause a degradation of network performance or security or there is a risk that it will expose the college to legal action. It also reserves the right, through the IT department, to disconnect ANY computer and/or Learner from the network where there is evidence that the computer is being used in a manner which breaches copyright or data protection legislation, or which puts the services available to other users at risk.

Breaches of this policy will be dealt with under the Learner Disciplinary Procedures and may be considered as gross misconduct.
